The thirty-seventh annual banquet and ladies' night of Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75, F. and A. M., Arthur M. Brown, master, was given in Finn opera house Inauguration day evening. The invitations sent out by the committee called together even a larger company than usual of representative Masons, their wives, families and sweethearts, over 200 chairs being taken in the balcony. At 3 o'clock, after an introductory overture by the Lyric Hall orchestra of New London, followed by a brief explanatory speech by Worthy Brother E. H. Hiscox, one of the most ludicrous burlesque comedies ever seen on the local stage was presented. It was entitled "The Curtain Lifted; or, The Order of the Sons of Mara." The cast follows:

COOPER PLACES PREPARATION

Will Continue To Meet Public As Heretofore In Spite of Change.

The saie of the Cooper preparation in New York will no longer be confined to the one store where Cooper has been meeting the public. For the past week Cooper says more people have called to talk with him than could be taken care of at one store and he has therefore decided on a change of plans. In speaking of this change he said. To would have to relieve the congestion at this store, as the number of people who call has been increasing each day, until it is almost impossible to see them all, especially at certain hours in the day. Beginning Saturday, my preparation will be on sale at all drug stores in Greater New York.

"By Saturday most druggists will have the medicine in stock and those who have not obtained it can easily order it for their customers. I shall continue to meet the public daily as a heretofore.

"The name of the medicine which is proving so successful scoper's New Discovery. It is a success because it revitalizes wornout, sluggish, distended at stomachs, and causes the gastric julces to become active again. As I have often stated before the stomach is responsible for all these half-sick.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A Criticism. Mr. Editor: In these days of advanced ideas and progress, along the lines of labor-saving devices, and the lines of labor-saving devices, and the lines of labor-saving devices, and the many recent discoveries in the arts and sciences, it would seem as though some method might be evolved that would rescue the present generation from the rut of innocuous desuetude in which they seem to revel, in their everyday use of the English language.

Why are they so lamentably deficient in their "mother tongue?" Why do their defects in grammar and orthopy still continue, to a large extent similar to the conditions of a half century ago? With the existence of compulsory education and normal teachers, it might be deduced that this branch of knowledge should keep pace with other contemporary studies.

This deficiency seems to be marked in a large percentage of the graduates from the public schools. It might be reasonable to assume that this inequality of scholarship is in accordance with the fact that a person can mingle with the business world and live to a good old age and seidom utter a grammatical sentence; whereas if

MASONIC BURIAL

Who has not heard the double negatives style of speaking by scholars who have completed their education (?) such has "He sin't got no time to go nowhere. He sin't got no time to go nowhere. He sin't got no time to go nowhere. He sin't got no horse," etc., thereby using an excess of words as well as making the converse of the brother honest and honorable.

The substitution of "ain't" for "is," sometimes is illustrated at auction sales in the proclamation of "here is a horse that ain't afraid of nothing;" a strenuous effort, surely, to convey the idea that the horse is exempt from fear. Probably the animal is the kind that "don't get "scat." The horse is also paradoxically warrented to be a "dead and down true puller," indicating that he would be true, not considering the contingency of being "dead and down."

A wagon is desribed as having a long distance "ex." Who has ever seen an "ex." in the construction of a vehi-

The myriads of people who have associated together and passed away unconscious of these technicalities were perhaps as well off as those who understood them, and this results to derstood them, and this recalls to mind the old saw: "If ignorance is biles, 'tis folly to be wise." A Correction.

Mr. Editor: -In your report of a paper read before the Norwich District paper read before the Norwich District Ministers' conference, by Dr. M. S. Kaufman an erroneous impression of Christian Science is given which should be corrected.

It has been clearly stated and proved many fines by those who are in a position to understand the facts that the Emmanuel movement and Christian Science are in no way allied to each other. The former fosters the belief in minds many, and in human will, and regards disease as real. Its practice consists in the use of suggestion. The latter is based upon one God who is

SUDDEN DEATH

Killingly, Conn., R. F. D. 1, Feb. 21,

Of Mrs. Andrew J. Bennett of Ashwillett.

The announcement of the sudden death Wednesday of Mrs. Andrew J. Bennett of Ashwillett came as a great "ex" in the construction of a vehicle?

"This ain't no fake sale," and "you can take your choice of 'ary' one," is also heard.

This combination of ambiguity and verbiage sometimes interspersed with profanity, completes a vocabulary of overwhelming magnitude.

In the line of orthepy, the pronunciation of the word hospital, seems to down many people, and it is seldon uttered without saying "pit."

The prevalence of an antipathy to the broal sound of the vowel u results in the production of "Toosday."

It is a well known fact that new words, phrases and pronunciations are constantly appearing to meet the requirements of the times, while others are becoming obsolete. Some orthoepists allow of optional pronunciation. The following words sometimes stagger well-spoken persons: Lyceum, museum, abdomen, cafe, debris, calliope, jugular, debut, hymeneal, Italian, and others that could be mentioned.
